

BODY OF SENSATIONAL SUICIDE IS UNCLAIMED

ACREAGE FOR WHEAT SET BY THE AAA

Lee County's 1939 Allotment Set at 5,909
Acres

Urbana, Ill., July 27.—(AP)—Illinois wheat acreage allotments by counties for 1939 under the AAA farm program were announced today by the state agricultural conservation committee. Individual farmers will be notified within a few days.

The county allotments represent each county's share of the state allotment of 1,789,192 acres and of national allotment of 55,000,000 acres.

County allotments have been calculated by a method which applies uniformly for all counties and all states. The method allots each county its proportionate share of the state allotment based on the 10-year (1928-1937) average seeded to wheat with this average adjusted for trend by giving the average of the three years, 1935, 1936 and 1937 the same weight as the 10-year average. Credit is also given for acreage diverted under the AAA adjustment and conservation programs.

Illinois' allotment represents 72.3 per cent of the acreage planted in 1938. It is pointed out, however, that large increases in wheat acreages have been made in the past three years when there have been no specific wheat acreage programs.

Adjustment Payments

By complying with their 1939 wheat acreage allotments, growers will qualify for advantages that other phases of the farm program offer such as price adjustment payments this year, 1939 conservation payments, 1939 wheat loans if loan program is in effect next year and renewal of crop insurance policies next year.

Of the 15,061 claims certified for payment, 10,942 went to the estates of wage earners who had died. The others were to wage earners who had reached 65. The average payment was $47.70.

Humane Grounds

Chicago, July 27.—(AP)—A parent owes more a duty to protect an adopted child than he would to his own child, Superior Court Judge Oscar F. Nelson ruled yesterday in ordering a foster-father to jail for six months for failure to support his four-year-old daughter.

Ellis J. Greep, 40, a cartage contractor, received the jail sentence for being $85 in arrears on an order for support of his foster-daughter, Edythe. The child is in the care of Greep's estranged wife, Leonda.

Judge Nelson said his ruling was based on humane rather than legal grounds.

REPORT ADVANCE OF LOYALISTS ON INSURGENT CITY

Hendaye, France (At the Spanish Frontier), July 27.—(AP)—Government war dispatches today asserted that government militiamen had fought their way into the streets of Gandesa, key city of southern Catalonia, and hitherto insurgent headquarters for the district.

Small advance groups forced their way into the city, the dispatches said, while the main battle raged on the outskirts.

Gandesa was the principal objective of the government's surprise Catalonia offensive which began three days ago with a westward crossing of the Ebro river, and has since penetrated 15 miles on a 16-mile front.

Earlier today insurgent general headquarters still insisted only a few enemy troops had managed to cross the broad Ebro in Monday morning's attack and that those were annihilated.

Insurgents said more than 14,000 prisoners were taken in a quick 18-mile advance, while six full brigades and several cavalry squadrons were trapped.

Government forces, meanwhile, were reported successful in staving off attacks near Viver on the Teruel-Mediteranean highway. Casualties on both sides were heavy.

"Big John", "Little John" Found Dead in Shoe Repairing Shop

Chicago, July 27.—(AP)—Police today continued investigation to determine motives for the fatal shooting of two men, known as "Big John" and "Little John" Smoter, whose bodies were found last night in a small shoe repair shop on the far southwest side.

Kensington police expressed belief the two men, unrelated and both in their fifties, had quarreled and fought a gun duel. The two lived in the rear of the shoe shop, owned by "Little John". "Big John" was a laborer in the steel mills.

Near the bodies police found two guns. "Little John" was shot four times, "Big John" twice. Police learned the two men had quarreled recently when "Little John" accused "Big John" of failing to pay his share of their joint living expenses.

An inquest was scheduled today.

Maytag Factory Is Guarded by Troops

Newton, Ia., July 27.—(AP)—National guard troops kept the Maytag washing machine factory closed under martial law today, in spite of the company's formal demand to Governor Nelson G. Kerschel to order the militia to permit the plant to resume operations.

The governor climaxed an exchange of several telegrams with E. H. Maytag, company president, last night with the assertion he intended to keep the plant closed "until peaceful settlement has been made."

Operations at the plant, closed May 9 when members of the CIO union refused to take a 10 per cent wage cut, were resumed on a reduced scale two days last week, but the governor declared martial law and shut the factory's doors after local authorities asked for troops.

Meanwhile, the National Labor Relations Board continued its inquiry into the union's charges that the company is guilty of unfair labor practices.

Took Last Dare

Boston, July 27.—(AP)—Nobody could say Harold Wilson was afraid to take a dare.

Wilson, 37, was crossing Charlestown bridge with two companions on a job hunting expedition when someone dared him to dive into the river and swim to a pier about a thousand feet away.

He accepted, jumped and swam almost to his goal—then tired and drowned.

CAMP GRANT IS TAKEN OVER BY 500 GUARDSMEN

Advance Detachments to Have Job of Cleaning
For 10,000 Men

Camp Grant, Ill., July 27.—(AP)—Approximately 500 Illinois National Guardsmen took over this camp today, the first detachments of the more than 10,000 men who will spend 15 days here starting Saturday.

The advance details, three men from each company, battery, or troop in the state, arrived during the night. The first one came late yesterday. It was from southern Illinois. The others straggled in by train and truck today.

These detachments have the job of cleaning up the camp for the main body. They must "draw" supplies, scrub and clean out the mess halls and kitchens, "dress" up the company streets, erect supply and headquarters tents, and make the thousand and one preparations so that the incoming troops Saturday may be quickly fed and immediately "fall to" the task of making camp.

Mops Are Weapons

Weapons most favored by these small details are mops, brooms, and scrubbing brushes. They also make more than a passing acquaintance with sledge hammers, tent stakes, heavy sections of wooden flooring, and the outdoors, including sunshine.

Camp headquarters is already in operation under command of Brigadier General Carlos E. Black, the Illinois Adjutant General, who arrived with part of his staff Sunday.

Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keelin, commander of the 33rd division, is expected to arrive early Saturday morning. The various regiments of the division are scheduled to start arriving at 2:14 A. M. (C.S.T.) Saturday morning with the last unit here at 10:27 A. M.

Units from southern Illinois will move by train this year, as will some of the Chicago regiments. Others move by truck.

Controversial Reports to Bar Assn.

Cleveland, July 27.—(AP)—Before the American Bar Association today was a suggestion from President Arthur T. Vanderbilt to consider the "problem" of the law school professor who talks "with his tongue in his cheek and his eye on page 1, column 1 of the daily newspaper."

The association's assembly, entering the third day of the 61st annual convention, was scheduled to receive a controversial report of a committee on administrative law, headed by Dean Emeritus Roscoe Pound of Harvard.

Jerome N. Fank, member of the Securities and Exchange Commission, has charged the committee's report "defames" commission Chairman William O. Douglas by asserting the SEC acted "in a biased manner."

A resolution by Dean Edward T. Lee of John Marshall Law School, Chicago, for information on Justice Hugo Black's eligibility to serve on the Supreme Court is to reach the convention floor tomorrow.

Declares All Records Were Taken to Probe

Springfield, Ill., July 27.—(AP)—Charles P. Casey, assistant Public Works and Buildings director, said today all of the state's records relating to Cook county highway projects being probed by federal investigators had been taken to Chicago.

Casey said M. J. Fleming, assistant highway engineer, was to appear at the U. S. district attorney's office with the documents today.

Casey and Fleming took a bundle of records to Chicago last week but Warren Cannedy, assistant federal prosecutor, said they were not the ones sought.

May Widen Probe Of Spanish War

London, July 27.—(AP)—The House of Commons was told today that the British government was considering a proposal from insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco for widening the scope of the British plan for a commission to investigate bombings of civilian centers in Spain.

Richard Austen Butler, under-secretary for foreign affairs, who disclosed the proposal, said the insurgent authorities wanted the commission's investigations widened to "include other assassinations and barbarities not connected with air raids."

Sad Fish Story

Mohawk, N. Y., July 27.—(AP)—Fireman Felix Boon figured in a sad fish story today.

While angling with his wife on Canadago lake, the couple dropped their catch in a bag tied to the outside of the boat. When time came to go home, Boon lifted the bag from the water—and found it empty. His explanation: There was a hole in the bottom of the bag.

STATEMENT BY HOPKINS HELD NOT COERSIVE

Washington, July 27.—(AP)—The senate campaign expenditures committee dismissed today a recent statement by WPA Administrator Hopkins that 90 per cent of WPA workers would vote for President Roosevelt.

The committee issued a statement in which it said such comments "are to be distinguished from those that are in the nature of political advice to, or that indicate an intention to exert political pressure upon workers paid from relief funds or from beneficiaries of relief funds."

Hopkins' statement, the committee found, was "in no way coercive."

Chairman Sheppard (D-Tex.) announced investigators will be sent to Georgia, Illinois and Indiana to investigate other charges of political abuses.

The committee heard a report from its Kentucky investigator, H. Ralph Burton, but reached no decision. There may be a statement on the Kentucky situation later in the day, Sheppard said.

The addition of Indiana brought to nine the number of states from which the committee has received charges of political use of public funds. Sheppard said a committee of eight residents of Spencer, Ind., had asked an investigation of "political activity of local WPA supervisors."

Reports of campaign contributions and expenditures from 58 senatorial primary candidates rounded out the committee's agenda. Replies are overdue from 63 of the 135 candidates.

A. H. Greening of Springfield, Ill., asked the committee to investigate charges that federal road funds were used in the Illinois primary last April.

Says Illinois is Still in Dark Ages

"Yours is the most backward state in the union," he said, "Apparently the Illinois legislature doesn't care to share in the housing program. There is $80,000,000 waiting for Illinois to use in housing projects, enough to build homes for 16,000 families." He added that the state couldn't touch this until the legislature acted. Strauss was here visiting a south side project.

Woman Returns to U. of C. After 46 Years

Chicago, July 27.—(AP)—Forty-six years ago Mrs. Theresa H. Archibald studied at the University of Chicago in the first year of its existence, 1892.

She is principal of the elementary school at the State Orphans' Home in Corsicana, Tex., heading a staff of 12 teachers.

In 1892 Mrs. Archibald taught in a Chicago elementary school. She desired to teach high school subjects and entered the new university on recommendation of her principal who prophesied the institution would "extend its influence not only over the city but throughout the country."

Later Mrs. Archibald obtained bachelor's and master's degrees at the University of Texas. For a time she was principal of the Fair Oaks school, now known as Hawthorne school, in Madison, Wis. She has been at the Corsicana school since 1912.

WOMAN SEEKING COMPENSATION DIES IN OTTAWA

Mother of Two Contended She Contracted Malady at Plant

Ottawa, Ill., July 27.—(AP)—Mrs. Catherine Wolf Donohue, 35, principal figure in a compensation case against the Radium Dial company, died at her home here today.

The mother of two children contended she contracted a malady, while employed painting luminous watch and clock dials at the company's Ottawa plant, which physicians said would cause her death.

Recently the Illinois Industrial commission affirmed awards to Mrs. Donohue including $3,230 for medical expenses; $2,398 for compensation from April 25, 1934, the date she became disabled, until June 29, 1938; $11 a week from the latter date until June 1, 1940, and a yearly pension thereafter of $277.60.

Others Died

Mrs. Donohue's attorney, Leonard J. Grossman of Chicago, said she was the eleventh woman to die among scores who formerly worked as dial painters at the plant.

She was one of 14 former employees who filed compensation claims with the industrial commission.

Grossman said he would press for payment to Mrs. Donohue's estate of $5,700 accrued under the awards and would endeavor to have officers of the company held criminally responsible for her death.

Wasted and bedridden for many months, Mrs. Donohue smiled wanly last April when a commission arbitrator decided she was entitled to the awards.

Was a Test Case

"I'll have to suffer more," she commented.

Her husband, Thomas, was with her when she died today.

Her fight for compensation was considered a test case on which might depend similar claims by other former employees of the concern which has moved its plant to New York.

Counsel for the company filed notice in La Salle county circuit court they would appeal from the commission decision. Hearing on the preliminary steps in the appeal was scheduled for Friday.

Mrs. Donohue testified she was employed at the plant from 1922 until she was discharged in 1931. Surviving her were the widower and children, Thomas, 5, and Mary Jane, 3, and two brothers, Edward and Francis Wolfe of Ottawa. A funeral was arranged for 9 A. M. Friday at St. Columba Catholic church, with burial in St. Columba cemetery.

Manchoukuo Willing for Russ Compromise

Hsinking, Manchoukuo, July 27.—(AP)—Manchoukuo officials today expressed readiness to compromise with Soviet Russia over the Changkufeng border conflict. They said they were confident this and other frontier incidents could be settled by negotiation.

Japanese and Manchoukuo spokesmen declared other conflicts on the border south of Khabarovsk and near Manchuli, on the western Manchoukuo-Siberian frontier, were purely local affairs and would be settled by local authorities.

A Japanese army officer considered an expert on frontier affairs said Japan and Manchoukuo—her protectorate—were ready to consider fixing a "natural boundary" for the Changkufeng area.

Dispute over that hilly region, near the point where the boundaries of Manchoukuo, Siberia and Korea meet, has been lively since July 11, when Soviet troops occupied it.

Galena Voters Approve Proposals

Galena, Ill., July 27.—(AP)—Two proposals were approved by special election. One authorized Galena voters yesterday in a bond issue of $20,000 to make repairs on two public school buildings. It carried 711 to 186. Another to increase the tax rate for educational purposes to $1.45 from $1 was carried 543 to 354.

Failure to approve the tax rate increase would have made the city a non-high school district with only a three-year school instead of four.

Faces Jail Term

Chicago, July 27.—(AP)—Thomas D. Harmon, who since 1912 has made alimony payments or more than $8,000 to his divorced wife, Bridget, today faced a jail sentence for being $125 in arrears.

Master-in-Chancery Francis J. Benda ordered Harmon to show cause why he should not be held in contempt of court for failing to continue his payments. Circuit Judge Fisher indicated he would enter such an order, returnable August 3.

Twenty-six years ago when Harmon was divorced he was ordered to pay alimony and support for his wife and daughter, then 3. Mrs. Harmon now lives with her daughter, who is married.

Harmon, his attorney told the master, is unemployed and his only income is his pension.

JAPANESE NAVAL UNITS PRESS UP YANGTZE RIVER

Shanghai, July 27.—(AP)—Japanese naval units pressed relentlessly up the Yangtze river today after helping powerfully in the occupation of Kiukiang, gateway to Hankow.

Officers said "many" ships had progressed beyond Kiukiang, just 135 miles below the provisional Chinese capital. All efforts were concentrated on opening the river channel as quickly as possible and no attempts were made to land troops.

Chinese troops routed from Kiukiang yesterday were said to be retreating still without attempting a stand.

Japanese spokesmen believed the Chinese would flee as far as Nanchang, Chinese air base 90 miles south of Kiukiang, before turning westward.

These sources added that a further checkup of foreign properties in Kiukiang revealed far greater damage than had been indicated. They said American and British oil installations suffered greatly from the Japanese shelling "because the Chinese had converted the properties into fortified positions from which they had to be expelled."

Third Clash Along Russ Border During Month is Reported

Tokyo, July 27.—(AP)—A third clash this month between Soviet and Manchoukuo patrols on the Siberian frontier was disclosed today by the Japanese foreign office with the observation that it was "not to be taken seriously."

Manchoukuo, however, protested the incident on July 23, two days after it happened. A similar occurrence July 11 drew a sharp Japanese protest which the Soviet government rejected. A Japanese landing on Faingov island in the Ussuri river July 21 was viewed calmly.

The official version of the latest incident was that on July 21 about 60 Russians landed from a gunboat on a delta of the Ussuri and "apparently reinforced by 100 men the following day" invaded Manchoukuo south of Khabarovsk and set fire to two small villages.

Five hundred Manchoukuos attacked them and they retired, the report said. No casualties were mentioned.

$22,000,000,000 EXPENDED IN RE- LIEF IN 6 YEARS

Congress Enacted Bill for Spending Yearly Since 1932

Washington, July 27.—(AP)—Federal and state expenditures to combat depression and unemployment have totaled nearly 22 billion dollars since 1932.

Treasury figures announced today showed $16,647,365,754 in emergency federal appropriations available before July 1. State expenditures for relief were placed last spring at $5,100,000,000 by a senate committee investigating unemployment.

Of the federal expenditures, the treasury listed about $8,000,000,000 before April 8, 1936, and $8,656,321,646 since that date. That was the time at which the treasury assumed administrative accounting responsibility for emergency funds.

Highway Work First
The largest slice of the money since April 8, 1935, went to highway, street and road construction, which got $1,988,741,710. Conservation work came next with an expenditure of $984,061,553. States received $922,343,199 for continuing relief.

Other expenditures were: public buildings, $631,771,129; housing, $111,708,331; public recreational facilities, $633,194,738; electric utilities, water and sewerage systems, $501,767,474; transportation facilities, $221,819,347; educational, professional and clerical projects, $785,783,130; sewing, canning and miscellaneous projects, $631,086,722; rural resettlement and direct relief, $432,430,081; and administrative expenses, $441,606,408.

Virtually every agency was given some of the 1932-35 funds, particularly the $3,300,000,000 appropriation which congress made in the National Recovery Act.

Bill Every Year
First of the relief appropriations was the bill enacted July 21, 1932, making $300,000,000 available to the RFC to be loaned to states for relief purposes. The loans were cancelled by congress in 1933. There has been at least one relief act every year since.

The $3,700,000 lending-spending bill, funds of which became available July 1, is not included in the treasury tabulations.

During the last three years WPA received allocations amounting to $4,834,974,053 or 55.7 per cent of the total. The Federal Emergency Relief Administration got 10.8 per cent; the CCC, 6.9; Farm Security Administration, 6.4; and the Bureau of Public Roads, 5.8.

Wallace Blames Big Debt on Republicans

Des Moines, July 27.—(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace today blamed Republican policies of the 20's for the "unusual increase in federal debt in the last nine years."

Carrying the debt issue into his native state in a speech prepared for delivery today before the Iowa Democratic convention, the cabinet official said:

"In the Democratic 30's we have been like sailors sobering up the morning after, with the federal government playing the part of nurse."

Wallace's appearance was the second before an Iowa Democratic gathering this year. In January he delivered the Jackson Day dinner address here.

The secretary said the federal debt of the "Democratic 30's is being carried with ease by a country restored to health." He took his audience through a set of figures which he claimed showed "total debts in the United States today" to be six billion dollars less than in 1930. Private debts, for instance, he said, are 12 billions under the 1932 total and 28 billions less than in 1930.

BRITISH TRANSFER BARS OF GOLD BULLION IN OPEN HORSE-CART

London.—(AP)—American gangsters who are used to seeing gold transported in armored cars watched over by guards with drawn pistols will weep at this news of how the British do it.

"Three men in an open horse-drawn van pulled up in front of the London branch of a New York bank recently with fifty bars of gold, worth $15,000 each.

A messenger greeted them with three cups of tea. The men set the cups on the bars, lit their pipes. Ten minutes later they took the empty cups into the bank and casually unloaded the $750,000 worth of gold.

Take Vows Above '3-Mile Limit'

This is probably the nearest to heaven any marriage ceremony was ever performed. Eduard I. Von Glatte and Miss Jane Webster are pictured as they were married 16,000 feet above Los Angeles by Capt. Richard Bowman, veteran airlines pilot. The idea, the couple said, was to prove that a marriage ceremony performed by a captain three miles above the earth is just as legal as one performed three miles at sea. Pilot Bowman brought down a sealed barograph, to prove the altitude.

CZECHS OFFER PEACE PLAN TO THEIR GERMANS

Praha, Czechoslovakia, July 27.—(AP)—The Czechoslovak government offered today a plan looking toward peace with its 3,500,000 Sudeten German minority population, but did not deal with the paramount question of autonomous government.

The government's proposals in a new minorities statute published suddenly last night at the apparently increased prodding of Britain and France, would grant new concessions in school administration, government jobs and the use of languages—all within the framework of the Czechoslovak government.

Local self government and the degree of its autonomy was to be dealt with later in another statute, and until that time it appeared here that a definite settlement was unlikely.

Premier Milan Hodza said the newly published statute was intended to be the basis for negotiations with the minorities—Hungarian, Polish, Slovak as well as German.

It was not at once clear how far the new statute went toward meeting the Sudeten German demands, outlined in a speech by Konrad Henlein, the Sudeten German party leader, on April 24. (German autonomy demands inspired Czechoslovak fears that Nazi Germany might take a forceful hand to aid Henlein. Recognizing the danger to European peace, Britain and France have strongly urged arbitration.)

TRUE STORIES

PROGRESS THROUGH CHEMISTRY

By Dr. Jas. K. Hunt, E. I. DuPont de Nemours & Co., Inc.

"Soapless Soaps"

A step in the manufacture of soapless soaps, which form billows of foamy suds even in the hardest water.

WHAT is it that the small boy would gladly do without, but which is otherwise regarded as so essential in the bathroom, kitchen, and laundry? The answer to this riddle is easy to guess. Soap such as is now commonly used for toilet and laundry purposes has been known for hundreds of years. A Roman writer who lived in the time of Christ told how it was made in those days from wood ashes and goat's tallow, the same general method used today in certain rural sections of this country.

In the commercial manufacture of ordinary soaps, an alkaline material such as caustic soda (corresponding to the "lye" from wood ashes) is added to an oil or fat, and when this mixture is heated the fatty acid of the oil unites with the metal part of the alkali to form soap. While soap is in general an excellent cleansing agent, it has certain limitations due to its chemical composition. When used in hard water, for example, the fatty acid part of the soap combines with the lime and magnesium salts in the hard water to form sticky, gummy compounds which will not dissolve in the water. These sticky "lime soaps" are the cause of the familiar gummy ring which forms in the bathtub. They likewise cause trouble in the laundry since, once deposited on the garments being washed, they are hard to remove. Laundries and textile mills have spent millions of dollars in "softening" water, in wasting soap, and in damaging goods because ordinary soap doesn't work with hard water, while the total amount of soap wasted on hard water in the home must be enormous. Within the last few years, however, the chemist has developed a new kind of "soap" which overcomes the above difficulties. Starting with ordinary vegetable and animal oils, the chemist now makes "fatty alcohols" which, in combination with sulfuric acid and other chemicals, give us a new class of compounds known as "fatty alcohol sulfates." Although chemically quite different from ordinary soap, certain of the fatty alcohol sulfates are the best "detergents" known. That is, they are similar to ordinary soap in cleansing properties, but are better in that they work just as well in hard water as in soft water. Even with briny ocean water they form billows of foaming suds. Nor do they injure the most delicate fabric or tender skin. Because of their "compatibility" with hard water, these new "soapless soaps" are now being used, not only in laundries and textile mills, but also in the home for toilet purposes and the laundering of hosiery, lingerie, and woolen fabrics.

AMERICAN HENS WORKING UP TO RECORD OUTPUT

Little Boost in Egg Prices Stirs Biddy's Efforts

Chicago, July 27.—(AP)—The nation's hens, it appeared from egg market vital statistics today, are turning in an all-time high batting average on the nest this season.

These statistics also showed birth control is "out of the chicken house window" this year.

A little boost in egg prices has stirred the average hen's egg output to record proportions, although biddy hasn't heard about the market, except possibly to find a little more feed in her trough.

However, farmers aren't goading their flocks, according to city fellows here who watch such things for market tips. Mercantile exchange statisticians estimate average egg production in the United States runs about 60,000 eggs a minute—day and night.

The poultry business, livelihood of hundreds of poultry men and pocketbook money for thousands of farm wives, simply has a lot of good cheap feed and hens are so fat and happy, the experts say they have been showing appreciation in their daily turn at the nest.

Weather has been favorable, too. Seasonal Decline

Although hens still are breaking all records in the laying department, egg production is in its seasonal decline, and with market receipts going down, prices of eggs have risen about 5 cents from the 1938 low of 16 cents a dozen wholesale in February. The government bought eggs for relief distribution early in the year but has been out of the market since spring.

Inasmuch as the number of hens and pullets of laying age in farm flocks is about 3 per cent less than in 1937 and 9 per cent below average, total production has been only slightly better than a year ago.

Here's the way the batting average reads: average eggs per 100 hens March 1 was 42.2; April 1, 57.9; May 1, 58.1; the all-time high; June 1, 52.9; July 1, 46.5. The July figure still was a record for the date.

Chicken birth statistics are told simply by the government census takers. The average number of young chicks on farms July 1 was 13 per cent higher than a year ago although slightly below the 10-year average for the date.

Couple Bound With Rope By 3 Bandits

Beloit, Wis., July 27.—(AP)—Police today were searching for three bandits who last night commandeered the automobile of a young Harvard, Ill., farmer and his wife and left them bound with clothes line on a country road four miles from the city limits.

Police Sergeant Jack Lanphear said Floyd Schmuck, 22, and his 19-year-old wife (of Rural Route 2, Harvard, Ill.) were seated in their automobile when the men, two armed with guns, approached and said, "This is a stickup."

Schmuck said the men then forced him to drive them out of the city, Lanphear said, and after tying the couple with a clothes line, ordered them from their car. Lanphear said Schmuck reported he had hidden his money, about four dollars, in his sock. Schmuck wriggled free of the ropes, untied his wife and obtained a ride from a passing motorist.

It is estimated that sleeping-car porters, 7000 of whom are employed in the United States, receive about $7,000,000 in tips during a year.

BIG BUDDY CLUB

In all the years of valuable service to the community as a patriotic organization working for the betterment of Dixon, the local post of the American Legion has never done anything quite so fine as its current effort to establish a Big Buddy Club among the boys of this city. We hope this movement will spread over the state and nation as a Legion activity.

The Big Buddy Club is forming into a really splendid organization in Dixon. The Truman School building has been given over to the purposes of the club and the committee in charge of the work is giving generously of its time and energy to make the movement a success. The purpose of the organization is to lend a hand to boys, regardless of creed, color or nationality and to offer them organized play, recreation, advice and any sort of help that they may need to make their lives better and brighter.

This movement originated in Dixon when the local Legion post passed a resolution which organized it on April 20th of this year. The convention of the Legion posts of the Thirteenth District, at their meeting in Rochelle, endorsed the idea with enthusiasm and it is planned to present the plan to the state convention at Rockford in August with the hope that it may be adopted and passed on to the national convention in Los Angeles in September, to make it a national movement.

No finer or more worthy cause could possibly be sponsored by any organization and the American Legion is especially fitted to do this sort of work because of the respect and adulation boys have for the war veterans. It seems certain that the national association will look favorably upon the plan and will make it a nation wide movement. Our nation surely needs it and Dixon may be proud to know that the scheme originated here.

... BY CHRISTMAS

If you're looking forward to the withdrawal of Italian troops from the war in Spain, don't be too nervous about going home for lunch for fear you'll miss the finish. You'll probably have time for an after-dinner cigar and a nap to boot.

The Anglo-Italian non-intervention agreement may be about to begin to get ready to start to go into effect. The two warring Spanish factions are now studying the paper's terms. And if the terms aren't acceptable to both sides, the whole thing will be called off temporarily and some satisfactory adjustments may be considered.

But suppose the agreement is accepted tomorrow. Then the matter will come up before the full Anglo-Italian committee for formal adoption. It is estimated that this step will take about a month. The agreement allows 45 days after that for the dispatch of two counting commissions, approval of their estimates of the number of Italian volunteers, and creation of evacuation areas. The evacuation process which will then begin is allowed 100 days. Final wind-up of the whole thing is allowed 64 days after that.

So—maybe—if everything goes all right—the Italian boys will be out of the trenches in time to greet the next Ice Age.

Or maybe even in time to celebrate the Spanish armistice.

A NATIONAL PEST

In regard to the increasing marijuana evil, it is becoming evident that the government units seeking to combat it will have to depend somewhat upon the common sense of the people themselves, owing to the apparent difficulty in stamping out the source. Opium and its kin have to be smuggled into the country, and may be caught at the gates. Liquor is subject to some kind of control, and owing to the obviousness of a distillery it is at least evident at its source.

But marijuana grows, or can be made to grow, almost everywhere. In a recent survey of two counties, federal agents discovered enough marijuana weed to supply all the addicts in the United States for a year. The environs of Brooklyn, N. Y., were found heavily infested. Only recently it was found growing within the walls of a penitentiary. It is to be doubted whether the combined efforts of PWA and CCC could make an appreciable dent in the source of supply. The weed, according to some reports, was introduced to the United States by Mexican railroad laborers who planted it along railroad tracks for convenient harvesting.

References are made to loco weed, marijuana and hemp. Whether the three are synonymous or are of different species is unknown largely to the public, and immaterial. At least all are said to contain a poisonous principle. Those who have been in the southwest are familiar with the white and purple loco weed, and what it does to livestock. Not very many years ago no one would have suspected that humans would go along with the mules, sheep, horses and cattle that were affected.

What we need, as a nation, is not more governmental control of marijuana if we are to escape serious degeneration as result of the reefer habit, but more national moral stamina. What we need is not more agents to seek out the stuff and destroy it, useful as these men are, but more men and women who wouldn't touch it under any circumstances.

Topeka, Kansas—This colorful state of the Jayhawks and Sunflowers, which gave the Republican presidential candidate to the nation in 1936, this year is making different political history.

It is presenting the country with the first Fascist candidate for the U. S. Senate.

He is the Rev. Gerald B. Winrod of Wichita. Running on the G. O. P. ticket he has a mysteriously well-heeled campaign fund and because of an opposition split-up among three other aspirants, he is a 3 to 2 bet for nomination.

Kansas Republican leaders, profoundly alarmed by Winrod's headway, are making desperate behind-the-scenes efforts to pull out one or two of his rivals in order to concentrate on one strong opposition candidate. But so far they have had no success, although several G. O. P. chieftains have repudiated Winrod openly.

More effective than the fuddling politicians in arousing the state to the menace facing it have been the efforts of a group of liberal clerics led by the Rev. J. C. Cleveland, pastor of the First Congregational church in Kansas City, Kan., and the Rev. L. M. Birkhead, for twenty years the crusading pastor of the All Souls Unitarian Church in Kansas City, Mo.

In a petition signed by a score of the most prominent Protestant ministers, Rev. Cleveland has appealed to the House committee investigating un-American activities to "investigate Winrod, his record, the source of his lavish expenditures and his Fascist connections."

"Winrod's publications" the petition stated, "for several years have been filled with reproductions of Nazi hatred for Catholics, Jews and Protestants. In fact, pages of his periodicals frequently read like pages from Hitler's 'Mein Kampf.'"

Rev. Birkhead charges that while visiting Germany in 1935 he saw copies of Winrod's Streicher, Nazism's No. 1 Jew baiter. Birkhead has been thundering against the Wichita Fascist by word of mouth and a scathing pamphlet, "What's Wrong with Winrod", which has been published by the Kansas Friends of Democracy.

The pamphlet grimly warns Kansans: "Winrod is a definite menace, for if he wins the nomination the first thing we know we'll have a formidable Hitler party in this country. All Jew baiters have their eyes on Winrod. If he wins, we'll have 50 Winrods running for office all over the country."

FASCIST BACKGROUND
Apparently anticipating this storm against him, Winrod has not only shut off his previous Nazi droolings but is even denying that he uttered them.

His stump speeches are full of vitriol against the New Deal but no longer contain the vicious hymns of hate he previously published against Jews, Catholics, liberals and educators.

In fact, some of the publications he issued and peddled with great zeal now have mysteriously disappeared.

Among these is the spurious "Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion", a Czarist forgery to inflame pogroms in Russia. Although Winrod's publishing organization disseminated large numbers of this document, it is now no longer obtainable at his Wichita headquarters. But issues of Winrod's "The Defender", dated prior to his senatorial campaign, carry advertisements offering the Protocols for sale in either retail or wholesale lots.

Like his campaign mumbo-jumbo, Winrod's "Defender" also has undergone a miraculous metamorphosis since he entered the political arena.

Prior to this event, it was filled with such games as "Did Jim Farley Romanize the American Post Office System?"

"Being a ring-kissing Catholic, his first allegiance is to the temporal ruler of the Vatican, a certain Mr. Pius," is Winrod's answer.

During the 1936 campaign Winrod's magazine published some of the foulest canards disseminated in that bitter fight.

It also printed articles professing to trace a Jewish ancestry to President Roosevelt, with pictures giving the President's face a pronounced Jewish cast.

MYSTERIOUS FUNDS

Winrod and his managers indignantly deny that they are spending large sums of money to capture the Republican senatorial nomination, but the record tells a different story.

A conservative estimate of his payroll is $1,500 a month. Old political hands figure that Winrod's electioneering will come to not less than $50,000; some place it nearer $100,000. This is a huge sum in Kansas, where a $15,000 campaign out-

WHICH 1 WIDOWER WILL REMARRY THE MOST QUICKLY AFTER HIS WIFE'S DEATH—THE MINISTER, SCIENTIST, LAWYER, EDUCATOR, POLITICIAN, DOCTOR OR BUSINESS MAN? YOUR ANSWER

"The keenest anguish known to human nature is the pain of a new idea," (Bagehot). We hope this column brings you pain.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. What funny problems these sociologists and psychologists do look into! Dr. Ray H. Abrams has been studying the men in "Who's Who in America" and reports that the scientists are the quickest re-marriers—one and a half years. The ministers step up to the altar next with an average of two years. The writers and engineers follow closely—a little over two years—while the doctors, lawyers, business men, politicians and educators seem a little more patient or else more deeply bereaved, as they endure widowhood nearly two and a half years.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. Dr. Edward K. Strong, Stanford

lay is a subject for scandalized attack.

The source of Winrod's funds is a mystery.

He claims he is obtaining money from small contributors and from the sale of literature. But insiders insist he is getting his big money from unknown out-of-state quarters plus corporation interests who see a chance to take a sock at the New Deal.

These last elements also are reported to be masterminding his campaign and responsible for the silence on Winrod's previous Nazi rantings against Catholics and Jews.

Winrod's campaign opulence actually goes back several years.

First signs of it appeared following a trip he made to Germany in 1935. Prior to that he had lived on a very modest scale, but after his visit to the Nazi hierarchy, he suddenly blossomed forth.

ANTECEDENTS

Thirty-nine years old, middle-sized, steely-eyed, and bald with the remaining fringe of hair worn long and curly a la William Jennings Bryan—Winrod is an evangelist son of evangelist parents.

For many years his father preached from the Defender's Gospel Tabernacle in Wichita. In his early years he was a bartender, but got religion, reputedly after his saloon was hatched by Carrie Nation.

Possessed of a powerful, resonant voice and wise to all the tricks of the stump spieler, Winrod is a potent campaigner. His favorite stunt is to wind up his meetings with the invitation, "Come on up and shake my hand, folks. I want to meet personally each and every one of you and to shake your good honest hands. Come on up, folks—all of you; if you don't, I'll divorce you."

VOICE IN THE WILDERNESS

Up until recently when G. O. P. Chairman John Hamilton issued a sweeping denunciation of Winrod, William Allen White, Emporia's beloved crusading editor, was the only Republican leader to join his voice with the men of cloth and organized labor against Winrod.

Alf Landon and the state's veteran Senator Arthur Capper have been strangely silent about Winrod. Friends of Landon say he has kept quiet for strategic reasons, in order not to hurt the candidacy of his young liberal protégé State Senator Payne Ratner, a labor lawyer, whom Landon is backing for governor. Ratner's father is a Jew.

Bill White has been belaboring Winrod in the Emporia Gazette, and in advertisements in other papers for which he pays from his own pocket.

In one advertisement in the Kansas City Star, White warned his fellow Kansas Republicans that Winrod was a Fascist despite the fact that at the moment "he is so tolerant and pious in his public utterance so sweet and lovely that butter would not melt in his mouth."

"I feel deeply," White continued, "that the Republican party in Kansas this year should rise to its opportunity. But with Winrod on the ticket to defend—and we must defend him if we nominate him—our case is hopeless."

psychologist, shows that the best way to influence and help people is to aid them to solve their problems in their own way and in their own frame-work of life. Business leadership, he thinks, often loses immensely by trying to solve the problems of employees in its way.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. Where experts have shown criminals were mentally irresponsible they should be sentenced not to punishment but to confinement and treatment. If a person is acquitted of a crime on the ground that he was at the time irresponsible, this proves conclusively he is a dangerous person to be at large and that at any time he may repeat the crime. He should be acquitted of the crime but not of irresponsibility.

Brain Twizzlers

By PROF. J. D. FLINT

If you have ever visited an amusement park and seen one of the so-called house of mirrors you will appreciate the plight of one man whose nose was bruised, shins barked and peace of mind shattered by the harrowing experience encountered. At the end of the tortuous trail through the maze of mirrors he came upon a conventional mirror which was six feet from his as he faced it. The man was just six feet tall and he could see his entire image in it. How tall was the mirror and how tall must it be if the man were to stand twelve feet away and still see his entire image in it?

STARVED ROCK IN LASALLE COUNTY IS POPULAR PARK

Record Attendance Set
On Fourth of July
With 53,215

Springfield, Ill., July 27—By far the most popular of the state parks from the standpoint of attendance is Starved Rock state park, situated on the south shore of the Illinois river near LaSalle in LaSalle county. This park, with an area of 1,148 acres is one of the largest in the state system and its location near large population centers assured a constant stream of visitors.

A new three-day attendance record was set this year during the Fourth of July holiday when 53,215 visitors representing 25 states and several Canadian provinces were counted. The previous record, 52,500 was set by the Memorial weekend crowds of 1937. The average Sunday attendance this year, according to figures compiled by custodians, is 14,500.

Historical Background

Besides having a rich background of history and legend, the park with its rock escarpments, sandstone walled ravines and gorges, its abundant forests and wild life, and its excellent view of the Illinois river, is one of the

Changes are Noted in Once Rigid Pattern of Threshing Dinners on Farms Hereabouts

The cool blue of July mornings accompanies threshing days, but beginning on farms hereabouts, but the uncertainty of transition has struck that great middle western social institution—threshing time, with its once fixed and unalterable customs.

From farm to farm, fields of stiffly regimented grain shocks have been disappearing this past week as golden straw stacks, shaped like great broad leaves, have risen against the horizon.

Men and horses still labor under a blazing sun, with loaded wagons groaning up from the field to the threshing and empty ones rattling back for more grain. Light blue shirts grow dark with sweat and chaff crawls down every back as hot winds sweep across the field to sap the vigor of the cool mornings. The water boy, with his jug, is still in constant demand.

But change has gradually crept into preparations in which housewives once tried to outdo each other.

Time was when rigid and uncompromising tradition dictated that no woman could be content with serving threshers meals merely as good as what they had had at the last place on the "run".

It is a marvel to all who remember it now that even the sturdy constitutions of farmers should have been able to withstand the astronomical orgies that threshing meals once were.

Puddings and pies of every kind and in bountiful quantity were served along with cakes at the same meal. Four kinds of meat on one table was not uncommon, nor were potatoes fixed three or four ways, five or six varieties of hot and cold vegetables, and several kinds of preserves and jellies. Fried chicken and homemade ice cream were the crowning glories.

Neighbor women always helped each other in the kitchen at threshing time, as their men folk did in the fields. The use of good china and best linen on the over-loaded tables was a matter of course.

Long hot hours of baking in kitchens where gas or electric stoves were undreamed of, peeling potatoes and slicing tomatoes, fixing cole slaw and vegetables went into preparations for the delight of crews of 30 to 50 men.

"East, West, Home's Best" Maxim Held in Disrepute by Vacationing Dixonites

"East, west, home's best," seems to be an old-fashioned maxim, pretty much in disrepute these days for everybody seems to be almost anywhere but at home. Numerous out-of-towners have left their homes behind them for a summer visit in Dixon, while the stream of Dixonites from their home town to various vacation retreats increases rapidly as the last July days go by.

Mrs. Florence P. White, Dixon high school biology instructor, will be leaving Saturday for Itasca Park, Minn., where she will spend the next five or six weeks at the University of Minnesota forestry station, pursuing her favorite study. She is planning innumerable field trips, and does not expect to return to Dixon until Labor Day.

Another Dixon teacher, Miss Esther Barton, principal of the Lincoln school, expects to complete a summer course in art and Spanish at Mexico university in Guadalajara, Aug. 13, according to word received by her parents, the Charles Bartons of Peoria avenue.

Miss Barton's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ortigies of Milwaukee, Wis., are due to arrive in Dixon on Aug. 10, and will be leaving the following day, accompanied by Mrs. Mary E. Stratton, for Mexico City to meet the Dixon teacher, who will return here with them late in August or early in September. Mr. Ortigies is Mrs. Barton's brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Barry Lennon of Dixon and Mr. and Mrs. Barry Lennon, Jr. of Chicago will spend their vacation this summer on a tour of historical points in Illinois. Both father and son are well-informed students of Illinois history and geology. The foursome were on their way this morning.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. George Dixon, who are motoring through the north on their annual summer holiday, have been receiving cards from the couple postmarked Port Arthur, Ont., and Canada.

The summer home of Mrs. Gilbert Stansell at Saugatuck, Mich. is to be the destination ahead of Dr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Worsley

Meanwhile, the housewife received praise for her plum jam and her chocolate cake, found time to greet each neighbor, and was tact itself when one man, whose like is known in every neighborhood, stayed right on in his place for the second table.

And after the whole ordeal was over, dishes were to be washed and work begun for the evening meal, since a good crop often kept the threshers at one place for more than one day.

But today, the "new leisure" finds the scheme gradually changing. Threshers seldom stay for more than two meals, since most crops are smaller. Whether or not they will be invited to the farm home even for one meal is a question.

Taking the men to a restaurant in the nearest town, once indignantly frowned upon as in hospitable or as evidence of downright laziness, is now a custom in good standing. It is done more and more frequently hereabouts, and in some communities in Illinois, having threshing dinners at home is definitely a thing of the past.

In other places, women folk have united their energies to provide meals during the threshing season at the community church or in school buildings, where more room and plenty of extra size utensils are available.

Even when threshing dinners are prepared at home, it is a far cry from the old days. There is still plenty of good food, but it is far more simply planned. Prepared food, bought bread, gas and electric stoves or ranges, and refrigerators have all helped to make the task easier. Fewer women are needed to help out. No one goes away hungry, but neither does threshing time put men in danger of their lives.

Meal time is even a bit more leisurely than before. But with all these changes and variations in the once rigid pattern, threshing day is still a thrill for farm children and a workout for their mothers.

Every farm woman still asks her husband what Mrs. Jones had today. If it was roast pork, the crew may rest assured that fried chicken will appear on her table tomorrow.

Former Sterling Woman Observes 91st Anniversary at Milledgeville

The ninety-first birthday anniversary of Mrs. Anna Swank Dieterle of Milledgeville, one of the town's oldest citizens, was celebrated yesterday with a family party arranged by her daughter, Miss Fannie Dieterle.

Mrs. Dieterle, who formerly resided at Sterling, was born in Beaden, Germany, July 25, 1847. In 1863, at the age of 16, she came to America with two brothers and two sisters. The crossing was made in a sailing vessel, which required 42 days for the voyage.

The five children came directly from New York to Sterling, then but a small village. The trip from the east was made aboard a freight train which also carried passengers.

Mrs. Swank's marriage to Matthias Dieterle took place in 1866. The couple went to housekeeping on a farm in Jordan township, where they lived until moving to Milledgeville in 1893. Mr. Dieterle died in 1911.

In spite of her 91 years, Mrs. Dieterle is a regular attendant at Sunday services at the Trinity Lutheran church, of which she is a charter member. Reading is one of her favorite hobbies, and she never fails to look at her daily newspaper.

The bout was fought aboard the excursion steamer Equinox near Alton, Ill. The opponents were Charles Holmes of Ireland, the favorite, and Jack Cope of England. More than 400 persons saw the match which was a winner take all affair, each battler posting a side bet of $200.

The fight lasted 62 rounds. Cope fouled Holmes in the 62nd round and the referee awarded Holmes the decision.

Many women were on board the steamer, but rather than watch the fight they danced a cotillon.

UAW Hearing Continues at Detroit

Detroit, July 27.—(AP)—Charges that four suspended international vice-presidents of the United Automobile Workers conspired as early as March, 1937, to wreck the union were pressed today in their trial before the UAW executive board.

The "unity" faction formed by the suspended officers, the board was told by Larry S. Davidow UAW attorney, "was dominated by Communists."

Davidow made an opening statement before the board heard witnesses to support the charges brought by Homer Martin, international union president, against Richard Frankenstein, Wyndham Mortimer, Ed Hall and Walter Wells.

Davidow charged in his statement that Mortimer, Hall, and George Addes, expelled secretary-treasurer of the UAW, asked John L. Lewis in April, 1937, to appoint an administrator for the union. The request, he said, was part of a conspiracy to seize control of the union.

The Paw Paw baseball team won its fourth victory of the season by noting out Welland by a 7 to 6 score when the two teams tangled last Sunday. Paw Paw banged out 11 hits and with the assistance of the enemy errors turned them in to runs.

Paw Paw almost lost the game in the eighth when Welland put on a rally that fell one short of tying the score. After the first three men had hit safely George settled down and allowed only two runs to score. Welland did not threaten in the ninth and the locals walked off with the victory.

Motion was made by Supervisor Knetisch, seconded by Supervisor Wolf that the petition be referred to the Road and Bridge Committee to bring in a report at this meeting.

Attorney Elwin Wadsworth of Dixon asked permission to address the Board relative to unpaid claims of Dr. K. B. Segner, Coroner, explaining in detail the State Laws regarding fees, expenses, etc., incurred by the coroner in the discharge of his duties.

Considerable discussion was entered into by various members of the Board as well as the State's Attorney, regarding parts of the Coroner's claims which have not been allowed by the Board, laws governing fees and expenses of coroner, etc.

State's Attorney Jones explained to the Board that he thought it best that the matter be referred to the Fees and Salary Committee and they should meet with the Coroner and come to some agreement and understanding as to his salary, expenses, etc., and report the result of same at the August meeting of the Board.

On motion of Supervisor Buckingham, seconded by Supervisor Anderson, the Board adjourned until two o'clock this afternoon, July 6, 1938.

At the hour of two o'clock in the afternoon, the Board of Supervisors reconvened. Ragged Return of Lost Tourist

Her stockings torn by the jagged edges of lava rocks, the heel of one shoe missing after wandering for four days through western New Mexico's uninhabited and waterless wastelands, Miss Laura Piedalue is pictured above after her rescue by state police. Miss Piedalue, a New York welfare worker, and her sister, Irene, of Winchester, Ky., and Miss Antoinette de la Forêt, University of Kentucky instructor, got lost after visiting the perpetual ice caves.

It is a common mistake to believe that all poisonous snakes may be recognized by the flattened, distinct head. However, the greater number of poisonous species do have heads of this type.

LOVE ON THE RANGE

BY NELSON C. NYE

The Story So Far

Under the name of Streeter, "Blair" Ankrum took a job on the Rafter T to help lovely Lee Trone. A plot is on foot to grab the ranch, and Ankrum wants to discover who is behind it. Heffle, a sheepman, jumps the water tank. When the blustering sheriff, Ratchford, tries to keep Ankrum from going after Heffle, Ankrum shoots the gun from his hand.

Chapter 23 Challenge

As Ankrum spurred his buckskin toward the southwest line camp, he decided that Ratchford would waste no time before attempting to even up the score.

Well, let him try. Action was what Trone needed now to shake him from his frightening lethargy. Ankrum thought it likely that his blow to the sheriff's chin would produce all the action they could handle—not to mention the manner in which Ratchford's pistol had left his hand!

His mind turned to the line of gab the sheriff had handed out. A smoke screen, he thought skeptically. The thing was too glib and pat; it hung together much too nicely to be the truth. Yet Ankrum was not sure enough to discount the story entirely—that yarn about Claydell had not been woven from whole cloth.

Some railroad, Ankrum believed, must actually be planning to build a road from Amarillo to El Paso; this was the thing too readily verified or disproved for the sheriff to find worthwhile the risk of a lie. It was even possible, he reflected, that someone was planning to build a town a short distance from Trone's valley. His engineering years at college had shown him that the damming of the valley could easily prove a blessing were the project controlled by scrupulous men. In the hands of a man like Claydell, it would undoubtedly prove a curse. But he did not believe there could be sufficient material profit in the venture, or even in the combined ventures, to attract or tempt the owner of the Swinging J.

Claydell might be a rascal, yet he could not see the man in the character painted by the sheriff. Claydell was, in Ankrum's opinion, much too big a man to fit that guise.

Ankrum's thoughts turned back to Lee Trone. He could not get her out of mind. He kept seeing her as she had stood in the open bunkhouse door when Betty's arms were round his neck, with that look of reproach in her eyes.

Ankrum groaned aloud; though the afternoon was hot, cold sweat came out upon his forehead. He should, he reminded himself bitterly, be glad she felt toward him as she did. There was no place in a gun man's life for a woman like her. But he wanted Lee, he realized now—wanted her as he had never before wanted anything!

The buckskin topped the crest of Eagle Point. Below him the Rafter T's southwest line camp, presented a scene of great activity. A man stood in the cabin doorway watching five or six others busily stringing wire to a long row of heavy posts that completely circled the great water tank and cabin.

Whether this land belonged to Trone or not, one fact stood clear above all doubt in Ankrum's mind. Trone's long rule upon this range was being challenged; unless the challengers were met and battered down, Trone's hold would be broken!

Ankrum sank his spurs and the buckskin lunged down the treacherous slide. One of the wire-stringers glanced up. Ankrum saw the man drop his pliers on the instant saw his lips spread widely in a shout he could not hear, and dash for the cabin as the man in the doorway ducked within, to reappear a moment later with a border rifle in the crook of an arm.

Outnumbered

Ankrum urged the buckskin to further effort, lest the men should fire before he could close the distance separating himself from the disputed cabin and water. He was outnumbered by at least five men, and knew it. But his mood would not permit him to take cognizance of odds. Passion flung its glow across his cheeks as he saw the last of the fence-stringers sprinting frantically toward what they judged to be the scene of coming action—the old cabin built years ago by Rafter T. And the eyes staring out above those tautened cheeks held a glint that was bleak as sun on wind-swept ice.

He swept straight up to the cabin, flung the reins across the buckskin's head and slid from the saddle.

The men flanking the cabin stood tense and wary. They were neither cowboys nor sheepmen; Ankrum recognized this at once. They were tall, lean and sinewy with a look of cold efficiency. Within swift reach behind them a row of rifles stood against the cabin wall.

Flashing across this group Ankrum's gaze rested momentarily upon the man in the cabin door. He was tall, lean, rawboned, with a lantern jaw and close-set eyes in a pockmarked face. A cud of tobacco bulged one cheek and a tangle of grayish hair hung down across a corrugated forehead whose most prominent feature was the knife-scar that ran slantwise above one eye.

Ankrum's voice broke the quiet. "Who's roddin' this crew?"

The man in the doorway shifted the rifle cock in his arm. "Me," he said, and spat.

"An' who are you?"

"Boone Heffle—if it's any of yore business."

"I'm makin' it my business," drawled Ankrum softly. "What are you doin' on the Rafter T?"

The man's eyes showed a rush of temper. "I'm drivin' posts an' stringin' wire—an' I'm not on the blasted Rafter! Anybody think that outfit owned the earth to hear 'em talk?"

"They own this cabin an' water-hole," Ankrum said, "an' they're givin' you just three minutes to make yourselves scarce. An' them that haven't left when that time is up will be carried off later—feet first!"

When Ankrum, heading for the corral, ignored Lee's call, her face went white. One hand clenched the quirt that was looped to her wrist. It almost seemed as though she was of a mind to use it as she took two swift steps after the new man's retreating figure. But she stopped abruptly.

With an unfathomable light in her eyes she stood abstractedly beside Tom Ratchford and her father. Idly she watched Ring-Legs follow Ankrum to the pole corral, shake out his rope and send its loop snaking across the head of a bay whose long, slim legs seemed built for speed. Plainly Ring-Legs had notions of taling the new foreman back to the disputed water.

'You'd Be Surprised'

When Ankrum sent his buckskin out across the yard and into the trail leading to the valley's rim, Lee beckoned to Ring-Legs.

Reluctantly the puncher turned his mount in her direction. When he stopped the bay beside her, Lee said:

"Just leave him here, Ring-Legs. Thanks for saddlin' him."

"Huh?" the puncher's jaw dropped open. "Mind ridin' that trail again, ma'am?"

"I said you can leave the bay."

here—get out of the saddle."

"I was figurin' on followin' Streeter," he began, "but she stopped him with a gesture."

"Then you'll have to saddle another horse. I'm in a hurry an' this one's handy."

"But, ma'am," Ring-Legs protested, red of face, "you can't ride in them duds!"

Lee glanced down at her light blue frock.

"Can't I? You'd be surprised at what I can do once my mind's made up. Get down, now; I want that horse."

Ring-Legs dismounted.

The next moment Lee was in the saddle, and off after Streeter.

When she reached the crest of Eagle Point, she saw that he was standing before the cabin and that a line of men were facing him. He seemed to be talking to a man who lounged in the doorway, a rifle held in the crook of an arm, but she could not catch any words.

Cautiously she urged the bay into the trail leading down the slope.

If she was seen, the men gave no evidence of the fact; their expressionless eyes seemed glued to Streeter's face. He couldn't see her for his back was turned toward her. Drawing near, she knelt the bay to one side of the clearing before the cabin, to a place where she could see all faces and easily hear any spoken words. As she settled herself to watch, she heard Streeter's voice cross the silence recklessly:

"I'm givin' you just three minutes to make yourselves scarce."

Silence fell again about the cabin. Heffle's eyes took on a burning glitter. He spat abruptly, said:

"Who the hell might you be? Pears to me you're mighty free with your orders."

"I'm Streeter—foreman of the Rafter T."

"Yeah? When'd Mose Hackett quit?"

"He didn't quit—he had his lamp blown out. I'm about surprised your boss ain't put you wise."

"Dead! Mose Hackett?" Heffle's angular jaw sagged in amazement. It closed swiftly with a harsh snap.

"What d'ye mean by boss?"

"I was referin' to the gent that gives you orders—like the order you got to jump this camp."

"Orders? Hell, no man gives me orders, mister—you included. I do just as I please, an' when I damn well feel like it!"

"Then you'd better start feelin' like clearin' out," Ankrum's drawl was soft and wicked, "cause you've only got two minutes left if you're aimin' to leave under your own steam."
